

Just as if the participants were visiting Roger's own living room, he sat completely relaxed in his stocking and lectured in a very entertaining way about economics. During the coffee, he answered just about every single question that the participants wanted to ask. The oddest one was "Are you on Tinder?"

SEK 1,780,000 to the Children of the World in a single evening

What a night! What a turnout! What a menu! What a suggestion! When Roger Akelius has a flash of genius, the result is usually successful. So even now when, together with the islanders, he wants to take Öckerö to the top in the collection for Världens Barn.

Roger himself stood at the door and welcomed all the guests to the charity event at Nimbus on Monday evening. The atmosphere was at its best right from the start as everyone met and mingled. The turnout was huge. The women were neighbors.

Lars-Gösta Alsterberg, chairman of the Öckerö business association, welcomed everyone. After the tasty starter, Roger and two of his colleagues took the stage to impart their knowledge to you.

In an entertaining way, Roger taught the mathematics you need to be able to calculate long-term investments. The topics discussed were many: Taxes, inflation, interest, shares, making money from risk.

How relaxed Roger is as a person was shown when he took off his shoes and sat in only his socks and talked, just as if you were visiting his own living room. The fact that he also has a brilliant sense of humor that attracts treasure is the icing on the cake.

Roger Akelius is like a sea of experience and knowledge, and this evening we got a real insight into his way of thinking.

For dinner, delicious fish was served. Now the participants also had to write and submit all their questions. There were no slices for the coffee, but there were very good pastries and, above all, interesting answers from Roger, who was happy about the cross-examination. Each guest took home a booklet full of practical advice.

Best of all, this evening - with Öckerö municipality's entrepreneurs and private individuals present - brought in 890,000 kroner. Because Roger doubles the whole thing, the staggering sum becomes SEK 1,780,000 for Världens Barn. This money is enough for a complete school for 180 students. Then the building, wells, solar panel, equipment, staff and teacher salaries and maintenance for five years are included. Feel it!
