

Save the Children in North West Balkans

2024-01-23

Every January, Save the Children winter school brings smiles and happiness to children's faces through play and socializing.

And besides playing together, children connect with different cultures and languages in different ways.

They especially like the Akelius digital platform for learning foreign languages, through which they get to know German and English.

In this year's winter school in the Una-Sana Canton, there are students who joined the Akelius clubs for the first time.

With the help of the Akelius digital platform for learning foreign languages, they learned basic words from the English language, rolled dice, drew questions with the number they were given and answered them.

See what that class looked like.
